

SCRIPT NANNIES

“We treat your script like your beloved offspring”

THE CARE AND FEEDING OF YOUR SCRIPT

At Script Nannies, we understand how close a writer is to their screenplay. This is your “baby” that you’ve created and guided to birth. Before you put your script to bed, you want to make sure it’s ready. We will give you guidance, encouragement and advice so that when the script goes out into the world, it has the best shot at success.

Unlike other consultants who pawn off your script to a team of a readers who deliver boiler plate and screenwriter seminar jargon, WE read your script, and WE talk with you one-on-one about how to prepare your “baby” for surviving in the real world of production companies, agencies and contests.

In our consultations, we provide a careful analysis of your screenplay, with close attention paid to themes, characters, dialogue, structure, description, craft and commercial viability.

THE SCRIPT NANNIES: JOANNE LAMMERS & KATHY McCULLOUGH

Like the best nannies, we have some of the best references and credits around, as professional script analysts who have been working in Hollywood for over 15 years.

We have read for many top production companies, including Castle Rock Entertainment, HBO, Miramax, Bedford Falls, Morgan Creek, Imagine, Jersey Films, and Turner Network Television. Kathy is also a professional screenwriter. She won the best screenplay award at the Austin Screenwriting Competition, and has written for Nickelodeon and ABC Family. Joanne has worked as a development executive, and has conducted several screenwriting and reading seminars across the country, including CineStory’s Story Sessions.

RATES

$350 for a one-hour phone consultation.

We feel a verbal consultation is the best way to share our analysis of the screenplay because it allows for brainstorming between the reader and the writer. Through this format, we can work together to find solutions to the problems in the script. The verbal consultation covers specific analysis of the premise, plot, characters and dialogue. We also provide email support after the consultation for general advice or minor story questions regarding the script.

Some writers feel more comfortable with a written record, beyond the comments in the margins we make as we read, and we are happy to accommodate them. For an additional $200, we will send you formal written notes after the verbal consultation in the standard studio format of three to five pages.
